State Treasurer Mortensen Advocates Prosecuting School Enumerators Who Have Padded Their Lints.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

ANCOLN, Nov. 4 - (Sateman - animber of the self-appointed committee organized to compel Rev. Heiner to give over to their management Tabitha home, an institution valued at $40,000, which he has built up during the last seventeen years, are fighting among themselves and the committee is about to become shipwrecked upon the rock of distrust. This cropped out at a meeting held by the committee last night at which time the committee expected to put the finish to the Rev. Heiner and take active charge of the home, or get in a position to do so by securing a majority of the members of the board of trustees.

The fight came over the spoils which tha committee expected to get after freezing Rev. Heiner out of the home. The meeting closed, however, with members of the committee distrusting each other and with Rev. Heiner, serene and patient, holding the winning hand with four members of the board to the three which he allowed the committee to name. The committee proposed last night to put two more of their flock on the board of trustees and thus sccure a majority, when they could get the scalp of the Rev. Heiner. That developed the fight. Miss Cora Garber, one of the chief agitators, wanted to be on that board, so did Miss Sarah Harris, another agitator. Mrs. Joseph Wittman and Mrs. H. M. Bushnell were the other two recommended by the committee for membership. From these four the Heiner end of the board is supposed to select two members. But it hap pened that the Heiner contingent has four members of the board, a majority, and the parties recommended will have to be passed. on by the board before they can become

Would Prosecute Enumerators. In the opinion of State Treasurer Morten en, those enumerators of school children who padded the lists in order that their dis tricts could secure more of the school apportionment should be prosecuted crim inally. "It is nothing but graft," said Mr. Mor-"because the enumerators were paid so much per name and every name that they fraudulently put on the list swelled their pay, consequently it was an inducement for them to pad the lists. I suppose it is the duty of the county attorney to bring the proceedings and I hope it will be done in this and Douglas counties and in every other county where the lists have been padded. There is no doubt in my mind but what this graft has been carried on for years and it is time to stop it. The proceedings should be started against the enumerators.

"I agree with Mr. McBrien that the best way to enumerate school children is by the attendance. This would to a great degree stop the graft, as the teachers would have to report to the superintendent and he to the state superintendent, and thus it would be more difficult to pad the lists."

Prof. Carson of the Normal school briefly welcomed the visitors to the college and the city. After the appointment of committees by the chairman, Miss Abble Burns of Lincoln, an interesting address was delivered by Miss Ruth Paxson of Chicago, student secretary of the American committee, upon the subject, "Christ Our Life." It was of a deeply spiritual nature, the main thought being the uplifting and elevating power of the Christian faith.

The opening service this morning was conducted by Miss Ida Vibbard of the State university, general student secretary. Miss Esther Anderson then took charge and onducted a short Bible service, which was followed by a business session, Miss Burns at Auburn two weeks ago, has brought in the chair. The reports of the secretary, Miss Weldy of Lincoln, and of the treasurer, Miss Malinda Stuart, were read. Reports from the local associations were read and submitted. They showed an active interest in the work throughout the state and an increase in membership, the total membership being 3,500.

If the money is charged to the Intercolonial council, which pays the South African constabulary, there will be a strong protest from the Orange River Colony, which is already crying out that it is saddled with more than its fair share of the common expenditure. And if the Transvaal alone has to pay there are many who will strongly object to have to bear additional burdens because the mines employ Chinese labor. Already it is urged that the mines must pay for any protection eccessry.

The general feeling seems to be that the Thinese should be strictly compounded, on he Kimberley system, but before this could be done the opposition of the traders who ook to the mines for a large amount of usiness would have to be overcome, and there would, of course, be a revival of the ery of "slavery" from those who desire to make political capital.

So Johannesburg goes on hoping for the best from the new police and mine arrangements, and for a new spirit to show itself in the Chinese; but the man on the Reef is miying revolvers.
